MANUAL FIGHTER

Made by Quadtree for Ludum Dare 60

Your case of gems that you were transporting for Interdimensional Mining Corp. has been stolen by dastardly pirates!

Use WASD/Arrow Keys to move around the station. Head to the spacedock forefield and head for the forcefield to leave the station and get those gems back.

Once in space, use WASD/Arrow Keys to move, 1 to climb and 2 to descend. Use Space to fire.

Here are the coordinates of some local stations.

- Sapphire Station 012012
- Bronze Station 034018

Flying the Ship

In space you will see a view with 3D rendered polygons representing other objects.

Use the WASD/Arrow Keys to turn and move, 1 to rise, and 2 to go down.

In the top left is the sector your ship is in. Keep track of this, you'll find 6-digit sector codes at times in the game and you can use this to navigate to those locations.

The upper right has your health bar. If that empties, you die. That's bad!

Pirate ships look like red diamond things. Shoot them with the spacebar!

Fistfights

Even in space, fistfights are really common, especially with pirate robots. IT COULD HAPPEN. Anyway, as a certified Space Hero, it's important that you follow Marquess of Queensbury rules, to show you're better than those dastardly pirates. Always fight fair, and don't use lasers!

In a fight, uppercut beats jab, feint beats uppercut, and jab beats feint. You can also shoot a laser, but as we just discussed, this is very unchivalrous. Don't stoop to their level!

The Pirates

The first thing you need to know about the pirates, is that they use a special code. Here's the mapping: 0-J 1-B 2-X 3-E 4-U 5-A 6-Q 7-Z 8-L 9-S.

The pirates are rumored to have a secret station somewhere in this area. I bet that's where they took the gem case! Most likely if you destroy it, the case will be OK and you can recover it.

If you get into a fistfight with a pirate, or a (hypothetically) a pirate robot, you need to be prepared. IT COULD HAPPEN. All pirate robots are trained with a simple attack sequence: Jab, Uppercut, Feint.

FAQ

Q: Why is the game named "Manual Fighter"?

A: It’s because you fly your ship manually. There is no other reason for the name.

Q: This game is really confusing. Where do I go?
A: Start by going to Bronze station, beat the robot, get the final sector, and go there!

Q: Where is Bronze Station?
A: Look in the upper left for your current location. Then go to Bronze Station at 034018.

Q: Why do I jump out the window when leaving the station?

A: Your ship is actually there, it’s just cloaked and intangible. Yes, that must be it.

Q: How do I get off the station again?
A: Find the room that looks like it has a hole into space. Walk into space.

Q: Where’s the robot?
A: Where do you expect to find a pirate robot. An alley, IN SPACE. Obvious. When entering the station, take a left, then a right. You can’t miss it!

Q: How do I dock with a station?
A: Just crash… er land, on it, by running into it.
